SENATE TO PROBE COAL SHORTAGE

Resolution Introduced Calling for Appointment of Committee Of Five Members.

TO JOIN WITH THE HOUSE.

Will be Empowered to Summon Witpesses and Give All Sides a Full Hearing of Grievances.

Another phase of the railroad situation in Utah has made itself felt in the senate. It is in the nature of a resolution introduced by Senator Lawrence, calling for five members of the senate, and five from the house, to thoroughly investigate coal shortages, freight rates, and other railroad matters in Utah.

In favoring his resolution Senator In favoring his resolution senator Lawrence declared that the public mind was in a state of unrest over the mater, and a feeling was prevalent that public interests were not being safeguarded by the railroads. The resolution refers to the coal trouble only as an "alleged" shortage.

TEXT OF RESOLUTION.

TENT OF RESOLUTION.

The concurrent resolution, which will be taken up in the senate this aftermoon for final passage in that body, is as follows:

"Whereas, There is an alleged coal shortage existing in this state and conditions bordering on a fuel famine are causing anxiety and apprehension on the part of the citizens of Utah and the mines, smelters, mills and other business enterprises of the state are hampered in their operations and in some instances are either entirely inoperative or threatened with becoming so through inadequate coal supply; and.

ALLEGED IRREGULARITIES.

KIDNEY TROUBLE

Suffered Two Years-Relieved In Three

MR. C. B. FIZER, Mt. Sterling, Ky., writes: "I have suffered with kidney and bladder trouble for ten years past. "Last March I commenced using Peruna and continued for three months. have not used it since, nor have I felt

"I believe that I am well and I therefore give my highest commendation to the curative qualities of Peruna."

Pe-ru-na For Kidney Trouble. Mrs. Geo. H. Simser, Grant, Ontario, Can., writes:

"I had not been well for about four years. I had kidney trouble, and, in tact, telt badly nearly all the time.

"This summer I got so very bad I thought I would try Peruna, so I wrote to you and began at once to take Peruna and Manalin.

"I took only two bottles of Peruna and one of Manalin, and now I feel better than I have for some time. "I feel that Peruna and Manalin cured me and made a different woman of me altogether. I bless the day I picked up the little book and read of your Peruns."

It is the business of the kidneys to remove from the blood all poisonous materials. They must be active all the time, else the system suffers. There are times when they need a little assistance. Peruna is exactly this sort of a remedy. It has saved many people from disaster by rendering the kidneys ser-speaker ruled them both out of order. The question resolved itelf back to vote on a motion to adopt the resolution. On a viva-voce vote the motion was declared lost, but a division of the house was called for, and on roll call it was found that the motion ried, with 22 voting for the resolution and 21 against. The speaker appointed Messrs. Taft, Richards and Jensen, N. U. S. C., as such committee. The house received two communications, one from the legislature of the state of New York, and the other from the legislature of the state of Iowa, treating on the subject of the adoption of a resolution by the legislature of the State of Utah, in common with all other states, relative to an amendment to the Constitution of the United States agains polygamy and polygamous co-habitation. Both communications were referred to the committee on judiciary. A communication was received from W. H. Seegmiller and other citizens of Richfield, urging the house to pass the railway commission bill now before it.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

The committee on judiciary reported favorably Robinson's H. B. 18 and H. B. 19, also by Robinson, which reports were filed.

The committee on claims reported favorably on H. B. 20, by Meeks, to reimburse Mt. Carmel school district for funds spent to maintain its school.

The committee on private corporations reported favorably Jensen's H. B.

tions reported favorably Jensen's H. B. 24, relating to exaggerated statements in reports of corporations, etc.

H. B. 34, by Westphal, received favorable consideration by the committee on highways and bridges. This measure provides for liability of owners for damages done by traction engines on public highways.

The committee on public lands reported on the communication from the governor relating to public lands, and and asked that same be referred to a special joint committee of five, three of whom should be appointed by the house and two by the senafe, for the further and two by the senate, for the further consideration of the communication. Report filed.

A communication was read from Geo, A. Boos, commissioner to the Alaska-Yukon exposition to be held at Seattle in 1908, asking that steps be taken by the legislature, for a fitting exhibit at this exposition by the State of Utah.

DURAND AGAIN.

Clegg introduced H. R. 3, providing for the appointment of a committee of five by the speaker, for the purpose of investigating the alleged evils practised by a certain justice of the peace in Salt Lake county, which committee shall be empowered to summon witnesses, take testimony and suggest legislation for the remedying of the abuses said to exist. Some debate was indulged in and the resolution passed with an amendment referring same to with an amendment referring same to the judiciary committee.

NEW BILLS.

The following bills were introduced; H. B. 57, by Larsen, appropriating $4,000 for the improvement of Emery county roads and bridges.
H. B. 58, by Martin Jensen, repealing the statute creating a state institution of art.

H. B. 62, by Bower by request, providing for treatment of habitual drunkards at the expense of the coun-

H. B. 63, by Richards, providing for settlement between cities and school districts where parts of districts or school houses are annexed by cities. H. B. 64, by Robinson, giving asses-sors authority to require statement of taxable property from individuals.

LEGISLATIVE SIDELIGHTS.

"Personally vindicated" was Senator Brinkerhoff's comment on the news that S. B. 4 had met its death in the lower house on the upper floor. Brinkerhoff was first on the secretary's list when it came to calling the roll, and he refused to vote one day. Next day he voted "No," and it was the only "no" recorded

Senator Lawrence as he rises from the center of the senate row. After he is through talking, however, the senators find a proposition unfolded

The house committee on public buildings and grounds of which Westphal is chairman, returned yesterday from a visit to the state institution for the deaf, dumb and blind at Ogden. The members of the committee are enthusiastic over the splendid progress being made at this institution, and show-er praises on Prof. Driggs for his effi-cient conduct of the same.

H. B. 63, introduced by Mr. Richards of Salt Lake, is claimed by its author to fill a long felt want in the way of legislation for the correction of evils arising from the extension of the boundaries of cities. Sometimes in annexing surrounding settlements, cities take in recently constructed school buildings, built by the people of the school district, a part of which becomes attached to the municipality. The building is into the municipality. The building is in-cluded in the portion annexed, and the people of the balance of the district are left without a schoolhouse for their people of the balance of the district are left without a schoolhouse for their children, and also without redress or recompense for the money they have expended for the building. This measure, Mr. Richards asserts, will correct this defect, and will provide for compensation for districts, or parts of cities, so deprived of their school buildings.

The committee on mining and smelting has decided to report favorably Barnett's "grub stake" bill, providing that prospectors who have been "grub staked" must give the names of parties interested when filing on claims. A favorable report will also be made on Robinson's bill providing for the establishment of mining drainage districts.

Speaker Joseph's bill for the settlement of the smelter smoke problem is meeting with a stormy reception in committee. In the bill it is proposed to give the smelters the right of eminent domain, permitting them to condemn lands affected by the smoke. This provision is strongly objected to by some members of the mining and smelting committee, which has the measure under consideration, and althought several meetings have been held to consider the question, no report has been decided on. Representative McRae, who is a member of the committee, denounces the proposed bill as a "corporate measure" and declares the farmers will not go back on their position in regard to the smelter nuisance. o give the smelters the right of em-to them that it is very hard to vote dawn. Lawrence was voted off his feet less often than any other senator in the Sixth session, and it wasn't on account of the fact that he falled to take a definite position.

President Love is rated as an expert on freight rates, and it is not thought likely that he will in any way hamper the work of the special investigating committee by failing to come forward with all obtainable information. With Lawrence at the head of the probing committee, somebody is pretty sure to be probed away down deep, and if Love follows his usual precedent, Lawrence will get the position.

Last session Hollingsworth was the only senator who had flowers come to his desk, daily or otherwise. This year it is different. Now he looks less like the "beau ideal" and more like a statesman in the budding. When closely interviewed, he admits that there were two unmarried senators in the Sixth session, and that Senator Lawrence is the only one who was a bachelor then who is not a married man now.

If Senator Miller should ever really It sensitor affiler should ever really inwind a speech, there is some wonderment as to what it would be going at the end. He has started out on several, and although they only lasted a minute, the speed of articulation gathered momentum from about 10 words a minute to about 40, and embryo gestures were in evidence at the finish

Senator Seely, a very good natured man from the south, upon whose shoulders the honor of being a senator sits very lightly, has run counter to Senator Walton, who sits opposite him on the southwestern horn of the dilemma, while he holds down the northwestern. Walton believes all bounties are frauds, and Seely believes all sheep men deserve protection more than the present law affords. They have interesting "talkfests" when they get together on the subject.

ANDELIN-CLARK CONCERT.

What George Cecil, London Critic, Says of Fair Utah Singer.

Apropos of the Andelin-Clark concert to be given in the big tabernacle on the evening of Thursday, Feb. 7, the following criticism from the pen of George Ceing criticism from the pen of George Cecil, the well known London music critic, on the work of one of the principals, will be of interest. This is what Mr. Cecil said of Miss Clark in the Musical Star:

After the countless hordes of incompetent, or, at all events, uninteresting warblers which are exploited by remarkably astute concert-agents, Miss Arivilla Clark's successful London debut came as a most welcome surprise. Not only was she justified in giving a recital, but her fine dramatic soprano voice, with its equally serviceable upper and lower register, was employed to good purpose in Aida's grand aria. Hugo Wolf's "Verborgenheit" and "Der Gartner"—an airy and delightful little song, the beautiful "Sapphische Ode," Massenet's "Les Larnes," and an unnecessary ditty by one of our well-meaning lady composers. In Miss Clark we have a singer of temperament and musical intelligence—a very different thing from the intelligence which enables a young person to become a waitress or typist—and it is to be hoped that she will be heard frequently. With the exception of Kirby Lunn, Fanny Moody, and one or two other English soprani, we have no women singers who can compare with Miss Arvilla Clark. I may add that she has sung the role of Aida in Germany—and with a distinction which few English-speaking prime donne can challenge. Her accompaniments were very sympathetically played by Mr. Hamilton Harty. cil, the well known London music critic,

The Facts About Coffee.

Perhaps you know coffee contains the same kind of a drug as cocaine, morphine, strychnine—an alkaloid?

Perhaps you know tea contains the same thing and that neither coffee nor tea are foods?

Foods are necessary to do two things: Repair tissue waste from day to day, and furnish the individual vital heat and energy. Tea and coffee do not do the first and only make believe they do the last.

A N. Y. lady found out the cause of her and her husband's trouble. She writes:

"My husband, also, had to give up coffee—he was a nervous wreck from drinking it.

USED NEW METHODS FOR FORTY YEARS

George L. Farrell Was a "Dry Farmer" Before System Was Unearthed.

HIS ANNUAL PROFIT, $4,000.

Seventeen Hundred Acres at a Dollar And a Quarter Each Are Now Worth $150,000.

The following interview with a well known Utah dry farmer appears in the Denver Post: George L. Farrell of Smithfield, Cache county, Utah, the appointee of Gov. Cutler as the delegate to the Dry Farming congress, is in a better position to prove that dry farming is a success than any other attendant at the convention.

For 41 years Mr. Farrell has labored with the soil of 1,700 acres with nothing theoretical or visionary about his work. He simply labored long and hard, and demonstrated years before the scientists came into the limelight with their fanciful theories, that dry farming would pay, and that it would continue to do so indefinitely. Mr. Farrell settled on 1,700 acres in Utah and paid $1.25 an acre. The land is now worth $150,000, and the profits each year net $4,000. There is not a drop of water on a foot of his ground, and his experience is the more valuable and his story the more reliable because of the fact that he has no land

Mr. Farrell describes his methods as "I plow 10 inches deep after breaking the land, and then I usually have six inches of sub-soil. I use horses and diac plows altogether. With a fourgang disc and eight horses I can plow from eight to 10 acres per day, in a strip half a mile long. The fall plowing is done on the stubble land, after the stubble is allowed to grow about two feet high. In the fall that is turned under, and in this way gets all of the winter's precipitation, the snow, rain and frost.

I leave the rough plowing until the spring, and just as soon as it is dry enough to work I put on my disc. I use a different sort of disc than many of the western farmers. It is manufactured in Logan City, Utah, and is known as the six-gang disc. It throws the dirt all one way, leaving no space for weeds to grow.

the dirt all one way, leaving no space for weeds to grow.

"The boy with six horses puts the harrow on and continues to harrow lengthwise and crosswise through the season for the purpose of killing weeds and pulverizing the soil, as well as conserving all of the moisture possible.

HIS METHOD.

"About the 1st of September each year I put on the leveler and level the earth, the drill in the meantime being run in front and the seed drilled into the ground. We sow wheat at the rate the ground. We sow wheat at the rate of 35 or 40 pounds to the acre, and let it get the next winter's precipitation, and in the spring, when it is two inches high, take the harrows and tip the teeth backward at an angle of about 30 degrees, so as not to tear up the soil.

"This method breaks the crust and pulverizes the soil, and if there are weeds it will kill them. We generally harrow it both ways, as it gives fresh life and vigor to the grain. We then leave it to harvest time.

"By the methods I have described I average 30 to 45 bushels of wheat to the acre, 50 to 90 bushels of barley, three to three and one-half tons of millet, and have plenty of good pasture the acre, 50 to 90 bushels of wheat to the acre, 50 to 90 bushels of barley, three to three and one-half tons of miliet, and have plenty of good pasture for my cattle. I have between 1,300 and 1,400 acres under cultvation, and rest them every other year.

"I put in wheat last year and cut 210 acres on ground that I started to farm-41 years ago and have been farming it every other year since that time. The crop I raised last year was far better than any year that I remember. I broke up a piece of alfalfa ground, sowed two bushels of spring wheat on about two lacres, and harvested 69 bushels of the finest quality.

"I kept all of that seed and the millers offered me 10 cents a bushel more for it than the price of any wheat in the country. The farmers' association at the meeting last year named it 'Farrell's Golden Wonder.' I got a teacup full of seed from the north of England and continued to raise it until I got two bushels, then planted the two acres with the result that I have given."

Mr. Farrell, despite his 78 years, is one of the most active men at the convention. He was born in Hewelsfield. Gloucestershire. England, and came to America in 1853. He farmed in Harrison county, Ia., for several years, and then moved to Utah. He was county recorder of Cache county, Utah, from 1860 to 1864. He is a life member of the Deseret Agricultural acciety. He was also postmaster of Logan for seven years, from 1867 to 1874.

Mr. Farrell also has a fine military record, as he served for many years in the Nauvoc Lexion, and has held all its offices. In 1804 he was elected colone; and commander of the Cache military district, which office he still holds.

TRIUMPH WITH SALT LAKERS

There were no "early goers" at last night's violin recital by Arthur Hartmann in the First Congregational church. Every soul remained until the last note in the last strain from that glorious Stradivarius in the hands of a consummate artist; and even then they were loth to go. In fact, the entire audience rose to go with evident reluctance, and when the accommodating performer in response to prolonged applause did the unusual thing of appearing in several contents. plause did the unusual thing of ap-pearing in response to encore after the final number, the listeners gladly re-sumed their seats, while the artist played a delicate morceau that held everybody in played a delicate morceau that he everybody in suspense. A number of musicians flocked into the Sunday school room, after the rectial to shake hands with the violinist, and congratulate him on his success.

Inte him on his success.

The appearance of Arthur Hartmann on the Sait Lake musical piatform is a marked event in local musical history. An audience that completely filled the church—the great majority ladles, gathered early, and became so enthused over the violinist and his accomplished pianist that every number was encored, the genuineness of the applause being manifestly attested to by the expression on the faces of the listeners and their remarks to one another. The artists were very accommodating. They artists were very accommodating. They waited after each number to see whethwaited after each number to see whether the applicable was perfunctory or not, and when the heartiness of the appreciation was evident, they quickly responded. So the program, instead of consisting of the original six numbers, extended to 12.

sponded. So the program, instead of consisting of the original six numbers, extended to 12.

Mr. Hartmann is a very great artist. His "Strad." is a part and parcel of him, and he part and parcel of him, and he part and parcel of him, and he part and parcel of his "Strad." They grew up together, they are inseparable. He plays it as one would talk to the tried friend of a lifetime, and it responds as one would to a dearest friend. At the tender age of 9, the artist was playing in public with Saint Saens as his accompanist; and what is more, he was interpreting the great composer's scores to suit his own individual ideas, and telling the astonished Frenchman just how he wanted the accompaniment played. Mr. Hartmann is to the violin what Paderewski is to the plano. He makes the instrument sing, he makes it warble in lovely lyric strains, in sweetest, clearest melody. Then he almost brings his audience to their feet with the majestic, sonorous series of tones in the most dramatic style imaginable. In fact, the artist's tone production was characterized by Sait Lake's best violinists who were there, as magnificent. A feature of his playing was his performance on the E string, in whose upper registers the tones were as clear as crystal, ringing, bright and beautiful, tones whose singing qualities were par excellence, canary bird in sweetness, without the slightest suggestion of a flaw even when away up in alt, in the topmost leger lines. Another marked feature was the performance of the Bach "Chacone" on three strings, without accompaniment, the appreciation of which snot only evidence the artist's own marvelous musicianship, but a high order of appreciation on the part of the audience. The artist gave a Hungarian Rhapsodie of his own composing, a meritorious work which has given him a reputation as a composer; and this has been heightened by his transcription of MacDowell's lovely lyric "To meritorious work which has given him a reputation as a composer; and this has been heightened by his transcrip-tion of MacDowell's lovely lyric "To a Wild Rose," one of the most beau-tiful bits of tone cloring ever given on a violin. It captivated his listen-ers, held them in suspense almost sang them into forgetfulness of home and country. The Viettemps Conand country. The Vieutemps Con-certo in D minor and Wienlawski's Fantasie on the Russian hymn, were masterful performances. Prof. Pe-dersen believes Hartmann is even Ptomain Poisoning Results From Scraping Sides of Milk Can.

Although it is not certain it is thought the sudden and pathetic death of little Minnie L. Deering was caused ptomaine poisoning, brought on by eating corroded sugar. The little girl is the four-year-old daughter of Mrs. Letta Deering, 459 west Third South street, and she died early yesterday morning. Rigid investigation is being made of the child's death and the probable cause. The tot was observed scraping sugar from the sides of a condensed milk can on night before her death. About 1 o'clock night before her death. About 1 o'clock yesterday morning she was attacked with violent convulsions, which continued until death relieved the sufferer at daylight. Dr. I. W. Waite was the attending physician, and it is his opinion that Acting Coroner Dana T. Smith and City Chemist Harms who have the case in hand will find potmaine poisoning to have brought on death. The can from which the cance scraped the sugar is in the hands of the city chemist. The body has been taken to the undertaking parlors of S. D. Evans. Henry Deering, the girl's father, is in the hospital at Los Angeles, as a result of injuries received in a railroad wreck.

Many requests from Catarrh sufferers Many requests from Catarra surerers who use atomizers have resulted in Liquid Cream Balm, a new and convenient form of Ely's Cream Balm, the only remedy for Catarra which can always be depended on. In power to allay inflammation, to cleanse the clogged air-passages, to promote free, natural breathing, the two forms of Cream breathing, the two forms of Cream Balm are alike. Liquid Cream Balm is sold by all druggists for 75 cents, in-cluding spraying tube. Mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street, New York.

Funeral Services of Elizabeth Wilcox Held at West Jordan.

At the West Jordan meetinghouse Mon day afternoon impressive funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Elizabeth Wilcox were held. The attendance at the services was unusually large, and the casket was covered with floral tributes evidencing the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

deceased was held.

The ward choir furnished the music at the services. The speakers were President Joseph F. Smith, Bishop J. B. Wright and John E. Egbert, Edders Joseph E. Taylor and Hyrum Goss. They spoke of her love as a wife and mother, her true devotion to the Latter-day Saint Church to the end, and the many noble traits of character she possessed. The family, which consists of three sons, one daughter, 24 grandchildren and four greatgrandchildren, was admonished to emulate her Godfearing life, Interment took place in the Sait Lake City cemetery. Her two sons, Moroni E. Wilcox of Ogden, and Joseph W. Wilcox of Nampa, Idaho, returned to their homes yesterday.

Fear in Children.

An examination of 1,500 children, recently made, shows that thunderstorms are by far the worst terror of childhood. Afterward, in the order set down, come snakes, strangers, darkness, fire death, disease, wild animals, policemen, water, insects and ghosts. In the fear of rats and mice girls exceed boys in the ratio of 75 to 16. In boys, fear begins to diminish after the fifteenth year, in girls after the eigh-
